

Education is a shared commitment between dedicated teachers, motivated students and enthusiastic parents. To enhance the process of collaboration with effective commitment, PTA works as a strong force of connection for the institution to evolve better.

PTAs have always been helping Johnson Grammar School community right from its inception and will undoubtedly continue to do so in future as well.

Johnson always believes in working with parents and staff for the positive development of the students preparing them to establish themselves to be responsible individuals of the society shouldering the yoke of the nation with utmost diligence.

PTA serves as a channel of communication between the school and the community. They advise on educational needs as perceived by the parents and the students and promote quality teaching and learning, facilitating the process of education and the overall growth.

PTAs are voluntary and non-profit organisations which enable the members to voice out their suggestions to contribute positively to the organisation.

PTA and School work together harmoniously for the wellbeing and the overall benefit of the children encouraging active involvement of all by facilitating proper collaboration between the educators and the parents.

The role of the PTA Committee shall involve assisting the school in planning and organising educational programs, fixing the salaries and fees etc.

A teacher should inspire a child to reach academic success, a parent should inspire the child to use that success in a way that influences positive change in the world.

The active chain of connection in the form of PTA remains tied from all angles to strengthen all the processes to heighten academic excellence
